Material Transfer Welcomes New Team Members Across Multiple Departments
Strategic appointments reinforce the Company's commitment to customer success.

ALLEGAN, MI (March, 2023) – Material Transfer & Storage (MTS), an industry leader in the custom design and manufacture of bulk bag filling, conditioning, and discharging systems, announced today the addition of Angela Valentin, Controller, Matthew Bos, Application Engineer, Bob Stenman, Project Engineer, and Margot Allemand, Content Marketing Specialist. These key hires underscore MTS's commitment to innovation and customer satisfaction in the bulk material handling industry.

As an experienced budget manager, Angela Valentin has been appointed as the Controller to oversee Material Transfer's accounting operations and ensure financial health. With her expertise in aligning budgets with companywide goals, she is well-equipped to manage the company's financial operations.

Bob Stenman, Project Manager, is a valuable addition to our team. He brings with him 30 years of engineering experience. Bob will be responsible for maintaining exceptional customer support throughout the project life cycle and providing cross-departmental support to ensure successful completion.

Matthew Bos, an Application Engineer, will be crucial in developing customized bulk material handling equipment by creating specifications and performance requirements uniquely designed for each customer's application. With over 20 years of engineering experience, Matthew brings invaluable expertise to Material Transfer.

Margot Allemand, a Content Marketing Specialist with over five years of experience in digital design, will deliver exceptional digital content to address the pain points of our industry audiences. Her skills include creating high-quality videos, graphics, and advertisements for social media, industry publications, and associated websites.

"Each new addition brings a wealth of expertise and enthusiasm to our team, further solidifying MTS's position as an industry leader in bulk material handling solutions," said Sergio Carrillo, Director of Sales and Marketing at MTS.
